

2011 National Gaming Day DEMCO Gaming Gear Package Giveaway

DEMCO is pleased to announce they will give away a Gaming Gear Package in conjunction with ALA's National Gaming Day. This contest is open to libraries and media centers who have officially registered with ALA as participants in National Gaming Day on November 12, 2011. Applicants are being sought who truly have a vision for a Gaming program at their library or media center that could be more effective in how it serves customers or impacts their library. DEMCO has put together a gaming package that includes Triple Play Kiosk, a 42" Panasonic TV, and Xbox Kinect gaming bundle, valued at $3,194.

Applicants are encouraged to review the application prior to hosting their National Gaming Day event on November 12, 2011, as you may want to incorporate the day's activities via pictures and participant testimonials into your submission package. Additional sheets may be attached to the application form as needed.

Applications are available on our website at demco.com/goto?gamingcontest for entry into the contest. Entries must be postmarked no later than Wednesday, December 14, 2011 to the below noted address. This offer is subject to the specific restrictions, qualifications and conditions in the official rules. DEMCO Management and/or library industry professionals will select several finalists based on the merit of the applications and then the final winner will be determined by random selection from the finalists. Award will be announced on Friday, January 20, 2012 in DEMCO's booth at ALA Midwinter. For more information on the odds of winning please see the Official Rules, Selection of Winner paragraph.
